

The Final Phase of Study

HELPFUL TIPS:

1. As you now enter the final phase with the exams fast approaching, your study approach should be changing. Although you are still addressing new topics, simultaneously you should be starting to prepare for revision and exam preparation.
2. Remember, to check back to the module weighting and allocate your revision accordingly
3. Get up an hour earlier each day up until the exams and focus on understanding the concepts and principles, as this will help you to be better prepared to answer the questions
4. Do not take on new and unnecessary additional learning materials as this can add to possible confusion. Remember “less is more”, but make sure whatever you use for your review, is critical and that it counts.
5. Maintain a focused and positive attitude to your studies. Understand what works for you and work it hard. Do not be persuaded by what others say, as what works for them may not translate well to you.
6. Try our Practice Tests to test your knowledge as this will help you identify areas that you need to focus on.
